In vivo effects of phthalate exposure on glucose tolerance, insulin secretion, and lipid metabolism in target organs were investigated using the Zucker obese fatty rat, a genetic model of the metabolic syndrome. Young Zucker rats were exposed to DnBP via diet; older rats were exposed to DEHP via diet or drinking water. Phthalates altered insulin secretion in vivo in Zucker rats, as previously demonstrated by our laboratory. DnBP decreased insulin secretion in younger rats but increased it in older rats. In the liver, phthalate exposure up-regulated HMG-CoA reductase activity, a target enzyme of HMG-CoA and mevalonate. DEHP exposure suppressed lipogenesis and restored fatty acids oxidation in the liver. In vitro, DnBP exposure increased malonyl-CoA decarboxylase activity, a rate-limiting enzyme for fatty acid synthesis. In contrast, DEHP exposure decreased lipogenesis and restored fatty acids oxidation in primary hepatocyte cultures. These results suggest that reduced endogenous sterol esterification by DnBP may have resulted in increased HMG-CoA reductase activity and enhanced insulin secretion. DEHP exposure increased HMG-CoA reductase activity, therefore reducing endogenous cholesterol esterification.Cadmium, copper, and nickel adsorption to humic acid coated iron nanoparticles (HA/Fe₃O₄/Fe, wt%) in aqueous media. The use of nanotechnology has a significant impact on human and environmental pollution, since they may cause unexpected behaviour due to the special physicochemical properties. Therefore, the study of the interaction of nanoparticles with ligands present in the environment and the formation of soluble metal nanocomposites is of the great importance in toxicology. In this context, hum

I have the following problems: The selection of a valid choice does not trigger any validation error (which is the normal behavior for me). When I provide a value in the database for a missing choice, the Choice is somehow ignored (doesn't store the user's choice in the database) and the first choice is chosen by default. For now I'm removing the Choice field from my ModelForm and storing the user's selection in a separate ForeignKey field, but I'm wondering if there's a better solution? class

A: I finally found the solution myself.
