Q: How to clean/uninstall Java Runtime Environment and Eclipse from my PC? I have installed JAVA and Eclipse on my Windows 8.1 PC. Can anyone tell me how to uninstall them. And other question: I want to clean my computer RAM and CPU, what are the most effective software I can use? A: First, run the uninstaller for the Java Runtime Environment from within Java to uninstall the current installation (found by starting Java from cmd.exe in the Environment Path environment variable, or JAVA_HOME environment variable): C:\>java -jar C:\Program Files\Java\jre\uninstall.exe Then, please remove the following (be sure to choose the correct Eclipse installation, if multiple exist). eclipse.ini eclipse eclipse.exe eclipse.exe.md5 Then, you'll have to add the Java Runtime Environment manually again by clicking the Windows Start menu button (at the bottom of your desktop), and then selecting the Java Control Panel (at the bottom of the Programs and Features list). A: If you have changed JAVA_HOME environment variable then uninstall is as easy as Start your computer Open Windows Start button Type javaw.exe -uninstall or JAVA_HOME>javaw.exe -uninstall Please pay attention that it asks for confirmation that you want to uninstall the application. If you just press Yes without confirming then you don't have to worry about any problems. If you just want to clean only memory, you can use CCleaner, it's very easy to use, understand and powerful cleaning tool. :) If you want to clean your CPU, there is only one way for that. You have to know how to get CPU usage statistics. And for CPU there are different tools to remove unnecessary processes, so you can try many. I have to note that it's not recommended to clean CPU regularly. It is wise to do it if you have memory issues, like the standard Windows bluescreen.
