- Arcane Wizard: Multiplying the number of times a spell is cast to magic. Also known as a thief. While not equal to a sorcerer, he is still able to control the power of others.
- Dissent Artist: Cunning and a hooligan. Divulging his scandalous natural aggressiveness freely with weapons, he makes a living by creating counterfeit items for a living.

President Donald Trump's speech unveiling his tax plan is being widely panned by budget experts, lawmakers, business owners, and workers. And is there much need for the president to coddle business owners? In 2015, the United States' top five corporations — Apple, Microsoft, Pfizer, AT&T and Comcast — paid no federal income tax. For those who say that's the fault of their shareholders, let's look at it this way. Those corporations sent $250 billion in U.S. profits to other countries, including Ireland. So, for every dollar a corporation loses because of tax loopholes, shareholders will take home $4. (And don't forget about the CEO and top management pay.) Meanwhile, 61 percent of wealthy individuals — people like Trump — pay no federal income taxes. The combined income taxes paid by those six corporations was just over $10 billion. For every dollar the corporations lose to taxes, shareholders take home $4.63. So, corporate tax reform is great for shareholders, or should we say, those who sit atop the corporate pyramid. But it will make a huge difference for everyone else? bff6bb2d33

The Bulls (5-3, 2-0 SBC) play their only home game of the season this weekend against the Stephen F. Austin (4-4, 1-1 SBC) Longhorns at the United Spirit Arena. Game time is 12 p.m. Central Time. The Falcons, who open this weekend's SBC slate at Murray State on Saturday, followed their nine-point loss at Wichita State with a 69-55 victory over Saint Louis. Lamar's Trae Perkins led the way with a team-high 18 points, including a clutch three pointer with 28 seconds left to lift the Tigers to an 85-82 victory over UT Arlington. Perkins grabbed a career-high 12 rebounds in the win. Trevor Speights (12 points), who was 4-of-5 from long range in the game, and junior forward Khalid Aarin were the only other Tiger to reach double figures. UT Arlington (3-7, 0-2) were led by Kevin Ollie's two point game with 17 and they held a 42-33 edge in rebounding, but had a hard time getting to the free throw line. The Roadrunners shot just 37.6 percent from the floor. Jaylen Handsberry and the Wuerffel Trophy-winning Auburn Tigers slipped to 5-3, 1-1 in the Southwestern Conference following a 77-64 loss to Southern Miss at home on Thursday night. The Tigers led by just one point, 22-21, at halftime, 38-37, early in the second half, but the Golden Eagles pulled away to get the 12th consecutive win.
