I am currently trying to get the response from a node.js server to a webpage using the following code: var rest, request; function doRequest() { if(rest) return; request = new XMLHttpRequest(); request.open('GET', "", true); request.send(null); rest = request.responseText; return rest; } The node.js server is running on 10.1.1.1:8080 and it returns the following response: var rest, request; function doRequest() { if(rest) return; request = new XMLHttpRequest(); request.open('GET', "", true); request.send(null); rest = request.responseText; return rest; } How is this possible? A: It looks like you just need to change rest = request

And, this is I want to get all the lines which are like this line(1, 2), but, this gives only one row. I want to get all the rows. import pandas as pd import numpy as np import seaborn as sns import numpy as np import matplotlib.pyplot as plt df=pd.read_excel("/home/shubham/Desktop/Testing/2.xlsx") sns.set() df=df.sort_values(['one'],ascending=False) df_filtered=df.iloc[:(0.3*len(df)),] df_filtered=df_filtered.sort_values(['one'],ascending=False) df_final=df.iloc[0:8,(0.3*len(df))] df_final=df_final.sort_values(['one'],ascending=False) df_final.head() A: You can use slicing to get all the lines that contain one: df = df[df['one'].str.contains('(1, 2)')] Also, you can use the option dropna to remove all the rows where values are NaN and are not numbers. df = df.dropna(subset=['one'], thresh=None) Painting and Body Language (Yoga Pose Series) In the last few months I have been painting and drawing more in my free time. I had some free time as my young daughter was away on some kind of camp for a few days. On the days she was home, I was done with work and had time to do art or practice drawing. I found I was getting better and better at drawing arms and legs even the parts of the body I hadn't painted before. I was having fun with it, so I decided to draw some yoga poses. I would see a picture of a yoga pose and try to copy it in my drawing. I would think about form and anatomy, using this as an opportunity to study my own body in a different perspective. I really enjoy the learning that comes with my paintings and I think it's safe to say that I will be continuing to explore my art. I recently attended

Joe Barresi 10-14 11:38 AM Just wanted to let you all know that I am in Toronto as of today and up for a visit today at tax time. I will get into the office from home around 11am EDT. I had been planning on calling in today anyway to check if there was any news from the TSC, before I left for a conference. Good luck. Barbs 10-14 12:02 PM Good luck, they will take care of it. But from your description sounds like you have been educated on EB1. If you had been educated on EB2 then it is worthwhile to gather papers from it and submit with your new I-140. It may take time but one can submit and withdraw I-140 without jeopardizing any new greencard. If you would like more information you are welcome to call my office. I have done this for a couple of my clients. Your case is unique as for the lawyer who filed I-140 there is requirement for lawyer to file a declaration of non-participation on behalf of his client, If and when lawyer is able to withdraw the I-140 then client will also be allowed to file a new I-140. I can call you directly if you are comfortable with that, if not I can forward it to you if you prefer that. Here is the link to the official site of BIS for EB2, I also found this quite useful. As far as I know the EB3 category is not yet open for folks waiting for EB2. Does anyone have the details on the timing of EB3 I-140 lottery (if there is one)? Please let me know. Thanks. Bharath 10-14 12:07 PM Thanks for your explanation. Could you please explain to me the use of the word PEQ from the application itself? PEQ is just the section on I-485 section PEQ as it is required by law to apply on any change of address. I got my I-140 in 2004 and PEQ was required at that time. So it is a step that was added by us and it does not affect the approval process of I-140 Here is
