Game Mode: "NEW PLANET!"You will find yourself in the new world for TTRPG, completely unexplored. Your goal is to run out of your ship into the ruins. In the brave new world of the unknown, you are the only defense. Whoever can hold on to the passageway to the ruins for the longest period of time, wins. Your goal is to hold onto the ruins, hand in hand with your chariot, and after entering through the passageway at the top, it is not guaranteed that you will find somewhere safe there. On the ground, you are the predator, who waits in ambush, cunning and ruthless, in the embrace of death, ready to pounce on you at any moment. Game Mechanics: "Action Gameplay"The action gameplay mode requires you to use your intuition in a puzzle. As you progress, you must dodge and manage your momentum carefully, otherwise, you will be hit by the many obstacles. You can see how your momentum is being calculated in real-time. When you enter a new location for the first time, you will be equipped with a warning of the "danger threshold" for the rest of your session. "Adventure Gameplay"Another mode that emphasizes the element of "adventure" by using the different environments in the map in different ways. The task for you is to move through the maze with your chariot in the shortest possible time and pass through the obstacle course, no matter what the traps are in your path. If you can run through a maze before it is too late, you can capture the treasure. You can choose whether to play in "Action mode" or in "Adventure mode" as you begin. "Vanishing Map"If you lose your life on the ground map, you can continue your next session with a new equipment. This time your equipment will be completely different from the previous session. You will receive a special symbol when you die during your session. You can see whether it is on the ground map or on the top map, and if the death occurred on the top map, you will drop everything on the ground and will have to start all over again. In this DLC, the obstacle course is modified from the one in the base game. Traps are now more inventive, cunning, and in the end, more dangerous. A new map will be added to the game for the second season. "Action isn't really what I think of when I think Herbunter's View A casual Pixel warrior is someone that plays a casual game. You know, a free game. Usually you're playing for free without doing much at all except pressing a few buttons. For example, when I play a game on my phone I do a lot of things like change the background, change the icon theme, change vibrate, and change ringtone. When I play a game on a desktop, I usually do the same things except I change the theme. Most of them are just minor though.When I say casual I don't necessarily mean I play for free. Casual users also play for free or cheap. Unfortunately though, only a few games can be bought for cheap. So users that play free-to-try are considered casual players.And there's a very thin line between a free-to-try player and a casual player. You can be a casual user who doesn't buy the game, or you can be a free-to-try user that only plays free-to-try games. Some people even call themselves free-to-try players only to have extra players pour in and out of their account so it doesn't really mean much.I have no problem playing games for free. In fact I play more games than anybody on the Earth. I feel it's good to play some games for free. It actually allows you to really decide if you want to buy a game or not.And I have an 800 dollar graphics card. I can play an impressive graphics game on a 800 dollar graphics card. And half of all of my friends that I play games with have top of the line graphics cards. So good games aren't hard to play on. But you still have to play the game to decide if you want to pay to get it or not.I play most games on a desktop. I actually have two desktops for different things. One is for games, the other is for the internet. It's because I need a lot of different programs to be able to do these things. For example, I'm a proud Ambassadorduurr. I have a link server, two web servers, a source server, and a planet server. I'm not kidding. Obviously I use some programs to do this. But I do use Twitter. Also, I use a debugger to help me to do the network programming I do. I don't have to do that if I'm playing a game
